

Believe Typhoid Is Checked In Township

No Cases Are Reported In Borough Limits Health Officials Rap Handling Of Disease In Philadelphia

Although 15 cases of typhoid fever have been reported and more are expected, Lower Merion health officials expressed the belief yesterday that the peak of the epidemic has been passed.

This opinion was backed by the closing last Thursday night of Fullerton's Retail Shop whose bakery products, local health officials are satisfied, were the source of infection.

Health Officer Robert Thomas said that 14 of the 15 Lower Merion cases had been traced to Fullerton's at 37 Coulter Ave., Ardmore, and the other case to a restaurant in Philadelphia which had served products from Fullerton's main bakery at 154 W. Chelton Ave., Germantown.

Late yesterday, Dr. George W. Grim, Lower Merion's milk control officer, said they were satisfied with information from the Philadelphia Department of Health as to the results of examinations made of Fullerton's employees. Dr. Grim said he had read in the daily newspapers that typhoid carriers had been discovered, but that he had not received official confirmation of this either from the Philadelphia or the State health authorities.

Although the location of a carrier was an important link in the fight against typhoid, Dr. Grim said, he believes the present epidemic has been stopped by shutting off the bakery supplies.

In addition to supplying its retail outlets in Ardmore, Fullerton also served some of the most exclusive restaurants and clubs in Philadelphia with bakery products.

Both Health Officer Thomas and Dr. Grim tapped the city health officials this week for information in reporting cases and for their failure to act promptly when typhoid was traced to the bakery.

"The city had no idea where to go until we called on Thursday and told them it was Fullerton's," said Grim.

"As long ago as last Monday, we knew that Paul A. Cox, husband of the manager of the Ardmore branch of the bakery, was ill with typhoid."

A resolution directing that a formal protest be lodged with the Department of Health of Philadelphia for "its lack of co-operation in the matter of informing the authorities of Lower Merion of the situation" was adopted Monday night by the Milk Control District Committee of Lower Merion. Dr. Grim announced.

The committee consists of physicians and laymen who have jurisdiction over milk and dairy products in the townships of Lower Merion and Haverford and the boroughs of Aldan, Narberth and Lansdowne.

The first case of the Lower Merion area was discovered January 16, Grim said, and investigation began immediately. Lower Merion officials quickly decided the Fullerton firm was the source of infection.

"But no orders to close the bakery."

Citizens Warned To Clean Sidewalks

Points Out Danger From Slipping To Pedestrians

Officials of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club this week warned residents against placing ash and rubbish containers on the curb line and allowing snow and ice to pile up on their sidewalks.

Action of the club officials was authorized at a meeting of the club last week. Henry J. Kite, president of the organization, presided.

Placing of ash and rubbish on the curb line instead of at the fence or hedge line is contrary to instructions given to householders who have their refuse collected regularly. Allowing snow to accumulate on sidewalks is in violation of a township ordinance for which there is a $5 fine.

Members expressed the opinion that residents placing ash and rubbish in the wrong place were newcomers to Bala-Cynwyd who are unfamiliar with the township's regulations. In some sections the practice, they said, was causing untidy conditions.

The president of the Neighborhood Club said he had asked township authorities to temper their enforcement of the snow removal ordinance because many homes without men to clean the sidewalks. In some cases, however, he said there were reports of residents taking advantage of the manpower shortage excuse and were letting the ice and snow accumulate without any good reason.

"I firmly believe the bill eventually will win. If we are going to have a battle, let us have it. We are ready."

Assemblyman Brunner said he thought the Anti-Stream Pollution Bill would be passed despite the anthracite industry's "public-be-damned attitude."

"There are 3,000,000 people in the Schuylkill River watershed who are vitally concerned in cleaning up the stream," declared Brunner.

Members of the Montgomery County Boroughs Association also came out last week with an endorsement of the Brunner bill.

Developments at the State Capitol this week were:

Democratic leaders after a caucus declared they were "committed in principle to a thorough anti-stream clearance program but deplored the back-tracking of the Republican and Democratic parties from legislative programs."

Lobbyists were busy in both houses of the Legislature and seemed to be stirring up opposition to the anti-pollution bill which Governor Martin said could be expected.

Assemblyman Lambert Caldwell, who represents the Main Line section of Montgomery County, also is believed to favor the Brunner bill although he has issued no statement recently.

Cleaning up the river would give Lower Merion a waterfront that could be used for bathing, aquatic sports and fishing.

Court Backs Wife In Custody Appeal

Mrs. Warner May See Her Children Without Interference

Mrs. Roma A. Warner, 33, may see her two children one afternoon a week without the interference of their father, Sterling, the State Superior Court ruled Thursday.

Last August, Warner, proprietor of a jewelry store in Broad Street, Suburban Station, was awarded custody of the children, Richard, 10, and Edward, 7, by Judge Harold G. Knight, of Montgomery County Court. However, Mrs. Warner was given permission to see them every Sunday from 3 to 5 P. M.

She appealed to the higher court because, she said, she was called to see the children at her husband's home, 723 Kenmore Rd., Cynwyd. Warner subjected her to humiliations.

Mrs. Warner was arrested July 31, 1943, at the Ocean City (N. J.) home of Elmer Unger, former physical education instructor at Lower Merion High School. She and Unger were indicted by the Grand Jury of Cape May County, N. J., on charges of adultery.

They pleaded non vult and were fined $500 each, each paid a $200 fine.

A divorce suit brought by Warner and a counter-suit instituted by Mrs. Warner are pending.

Lower Merion High School NEWS LETTER

PVT. MARGARET McDERMOTT, '35, now a member of Camp Carson's WAC detachment, has been awarded the Good Conduct Ribbon for "exemplary behavior, efficiency and fidelity."

LT. WARD T. KANE, '42, has reported to Boca Raton, Fla., where he is pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress. After eight months with the infantry at Camp Howze, Texas, he passed examinations qualifying him for the Air Corps and received commission in Texas. He was awarded his pilot wings and commission in September and assigned to San Angelo, where he was on duty when his orders came to report to Boca Raton.

JACK WALLEIGH, '38, was made a first lieutenant on November 1st. He is with General Patton's Third Army in France.

LT. (jg) JACK WINTHROP, '33, is serving on a destroyer in the Pacific. His cousin, WGT. GARDNER WARDER, '35, who has been with the 5th Marine Corps in the Solomon Islands for over a year, was at home in Haverford about Thanksgiving time on furlough.

LT. MARTIN MOLONY, '39, completed his missions as bombardier over Germany and had a short leave in this country last summer. He returned to the European area when his leave expired. On October 20 word was received that he had been injured in action over France on Oct. 5th. On October 31st his parents were notified that he had three bone fractures in his back, and was in a cast and on his way back to England. This information was an improvement in the plane and there was a crash landing. Martin now has a cluster added to his Purple Heart. Martin's brother, LT. Jay L. Molony, received his commission as bombardier on August 26 at Davis Monthan Field, Tucson, Arizona. Jay left L. M. in 1942 when his family moved out of the township, just two months before his graduation.

ENS. H. N. (BUD) COMPTON, '40, has been on continuous sea duty, first on an LST, then on an LSM, since he was commissioned at Northampton, Mass. He says he has seen any action yet, and that the only folks he has met from the Main Line are older Navy officers who live here, but haven't gone to Lower Merion. Bud spent three years at Haverford College and then transferred to the V-12 unit at Swarthmore College, receiving his diploma at the end of one semester. From Swarthmore he went to Northwestern, where he was commissioned last March.

LT. (jg) LOU YOUNG, USNR, '36, has received from Admiral Harold R. Stark, USN, Commander, U. S. Naval Forces in Europe, a letter of commendation for untiring devotion to duty in the loading of men and equipment for the invasion of France at a U. S. Naval amphibious base on the English Channel coast. He was cited for service as assistant harbor-master prior to and during the assault on Normandy, when he worked long hours and without rest to assure readiness of ships assigned to take part in the Normandy landings and in the supply operations which followed.

LT. RICHARD H. (DIX) JARDEN, USNR, '39, took part in the invasion of France on Sept. 17th. He said the naval bombardment preceding the invasion was the biggest demonstration of blowing — out of an island he ever hoped to see. The first assault waves hit the beach at 0830 and a few hours later Dix and his men moved in with supplies, but were handicapped by snipers' fire and mortar shells from Jap squads that had infiltrated through the American lines. He also said: "The night before the attack they had a lot of religious services on the ship, but somehow I didn't feel as if I wanted to go. It seemed hypocritical to me. But at about 5 A. M. on the first morning when the troops were being over our heads, and an occasional mortar shell was hitting near us, I prayed harder than I ever have in all my life. I'm not ashamed to say that I was really scared."

ENS. JOHN M. PATTON, USNR, is no longer with a Seabee unit in England, but has been assigned as public works officer to command amphibious bases in the United Kingdom. He enlisted July, 1943, went to Camp Perry, Va., for training and received an overseas assignment in November, 1943.

COURTLAND F. KANZINGER, '35, has been promoted to master sergeant. Court has been in China for over a year at headquarters of the Y force.

SGT. C. M. (CHUCK) CLEAVER, APO 141, NY, sends a Christmas greeting from France with the notation that he saw CHARLIE MARSH, '37, in Reims.

548 Tax-Delinquent Properties Sold

Townships, Boroughs And School Districts Share $79,373.56

Properties acquired by Montgomery County because of tax delinquencies were redeemed or sold to new owners in increasing numbers during 1944, resulting in substantial revenue to many townships, boroughs and school districts of the County.

This is revealed in a report on the activities of the real estate bureau operated under the supervision of County Commissioners Foster C. Hillegas, Fred C. Peters and Raymond K. Mensch. The bureau handles disposition of all properties sold to the County at Treasurers' Sales.

Total $79,373.56. Operations of the real estate bureau last year resulted in redemptions and sales of 548 parcels of ground, mostly unimproved, amounting to $79,373.56, the major portion of which was attributed to townships, boroughs and school districts as their share of delinquent taxes due on the properties.

The redemptions and sales also mean that property assessed at $189,620 has been returned to the taxpayers on a current revenue-producing basis. In the great majority of cases, the amounts received for the properties covered delinquent taxes, which went back in a few instances as far as 1924.

Penalties, interest and costs. Sales of properties in the hands of the County brought a total of $34,497.71. Thirty-five parcels were sold in boroughs for $10,399.22, while 224 were sold in townships for $24,098.50.

Redemptions of properties by former owners produced $44,875.85. In boroughs 40 parcels were redeemed for $6,201.72 while in townships 249 parcels were redeemed for a total of $38,674.13.

Assessed Valuations. The assessed valuation of property in boroughs which has been placed on a current basis as a result of these sales and redemptions is $30,705,000, while in townships the assessed valuation amounts to $158,925.

In Lower Merion Township, four parcels of land were sold or redeemed and in Narberth Borough three parcels.

Boro Women Ignore Urgent OPA Appeal

Only Three of 400 Responded to Plea for Volunteer Store Inspectors in Local Ration Board's Anti-Inflation Fight.

Despite urgent appeals sent to 400 women to volunteer for work on the price panel of the Ardmore-Narberth Ration Board only three responded and attended a meeting in Narberth Borough Hall Monday night.

Behind the railings of the councilmen's hearing room were four speakers, who came to explain the OPA work, and in the audience the three women who came to volunteer their services.

The speakers were Henry Harman, chairman of the Ardmore-Narberth Ration Board; Benjamin Ogden, head of the price panel; Richard L. Miller, Burgess of Narberth, and Burns Best, chairman of the executive committee of the Borough's Anti-Inflation Council.

Prior to Monday night's meeting Harman and Ogden appeared at a session of the Borough Council and told the councilmen they had difficulty in obtaining women volunteers. They said that none of the present price panel members came from Narberth and that store visits are being made in Narberth by outside women. They pointed out it is always better to have local women make the inspections, because local merchants and consumers will cooperate with someone they know.

Ogden told borough officials he wanted a chance to explain that checking up on store prices was neither snooping nor FBI probing. Each inspector for the price panel is given an identification card. By pointing out correct OPA practices she is able to help the merchant as well as the consumer.

Refuses Comment. When asked what he thought about the turnout for the meeting, Harman declared: "The meeting was called by Civilian Defense officials. I don't want the Ration Board quoted. We are working on other plans but for the present we have nothing to say."

Notices of the meeting in the Narberth Borough Hall were sent to members of the following Narberth organizations:

Parent-Teacher Association, Mothers' Emergency Relief, Emergency Feeding Group of the Civilian Defense Council, Volunteer Medical Corps, Junior and Senior Sections of the Women's Community Club of Narberth and the American Legion Auxiliary of the Harford and Narberth Post.

Invitation to attend the meeting were signed by Burns A. Best, chairman of the executive committee of the Defense Council. The notices urged the women to attend a short meeting if they could do so at least once a week to "this important war effort."

At present, 12 volunteers are attempting to cover the business sections of Ardmore, Narberth, Wynnewood and Penn. Valley included in the Ration Board's work. In the four business districts there are approximately 500 stores which need OPA price supervision. Theoretically each store should be visited once a month.

Many of the present panel inspectors have been forced to work overtime to cover the territory. Last month the present group was able to put in only about 100 inspection hours, with half-an-hour considered necessary for each thorough store visit.

Report Increase In Juvenile Cases

Lower Merion Third On List With 34 Sent To Court

While juvenile delinquents increased 280 during the year 1944, from 235 in 1943, the number of girls arraigned in Montgomery County Juvenile Court dropped from 48 in 1943 to 26 in 1944, the annual report of Chief Probation Officer T. Hastings Reakle, revealed Tuesday.

Statistics shown that the total number of delinquents during 1944 was lower than during the recent peak year of 1942 when the total reached 281. In that year there were 28 girls among the delinquents.

In 1941 there were 199 boys and girls under 18 years of age before the court and of these, 19 were girls. Then in 1942 the number jumped to a total of 281, with 26 girls. In 1943 the total was 235, and of these there were 48 girls. Last year the number dropped to 280 with 26 girls.

These are actual figures. The report, however, shows a total of 352 "girls" in juvenile court.

Not Humanly Possible to Save Lives In Morrissey Fire, Official Probe Shows

It was not humanly possible to have prevented the loss of life in the fire that destroyed the home of R. P. Morrissey, Lancaster Ave. and Llanowen Rd., Haverford, on December 30 and took four lives, Lower Merion commissioners after an investigation reported this week.

The report of the commissioners backs up the findings of Harvey Benson, fire marshal for the Township.

Commissioners conducted a separate investigation because they have received letters suggesting that a paid fire department was needed.

In regard to this the commissioners say:

"It has been the conclusion of the Township Commissioners in the past and it is their present belief that the volunteer fire companies of the Township are paid and do furnish satisfactory fire protection for which they are entitled to receive the appreciation of our citizens."

For a number of years the Township has augmented with appropriations what the volunteer companies received through private donations. This year the companies will receive $84,665 from the Township. Even now each of the companies have two paid firemen on duty.

Report of the commissioners follows in part:

"The Fire Marshal arrived at the scene within approximately 10 minutes after the alarm was sounded. At the time the alarm was observed that a total of 281, with heavy steam and smoke were pouring from the windows of the second floor and several streams of water were being thrown into the building. He made several attempts to save lives but failed.

CHURCH NOTES

Christian Science Churches

"Love" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 5. The Golden Text is: "How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings" (Psalms 36:7).

Among Bible citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon is the following: "The Lord is good to all; and his tender mercies are over all his works. . . . The eyes of all wait upon thee; and thou givest them their meat in due season. Thou openest thine hand, and satisfiest the desire of every living thing" (Psalms 145: 9, 15, 16).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "There is today danger of repeating the offense of the Jews by limiting the Holy One of Israel and asking: 'Can he deliver a table in the wilderness?' What cannot God do? . . . In divine Science, where prayers are mental, all may avail themselves of God as they present help in trouble. Love is important and universal in its adaptation and bestowal. It is the open fount which cries, 'Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters'" (pp. 135, 12).

BUILT ON MILK

Just as great cities grow from thriving industries, so little villages often flourish from the success of the nearby dairy farms where milk is produced for Supplee.

Supplee farmers excel in the production of fine, rich milk . . . for it must be of the highest quality to meet the exacting Sealtest standards. And we're proud of the fact, too, that they're helping to meet the local war-made needs with a production level that means plenty of nourishing milk for every one this winter.

Here at Supplee we take every precaution to safeguard the milk on its way to you . . . and we improve on it with our very special scientific homogenizing process that makes every drop creamy rich.

Homogenizing breaks up the particles of fat in the milk, mixes them with the proteins—and that makes Supplee Sealtest Homogenized Vitamin D Milk smooth and creamy tasting, easier to digest. It's extra nourishing, too, with an equal share of proteins, vitamins and minerals in every sip.

Try it on your cereals and desserts, in soups and gravies, and in your coffee . . . you'll like the rich goodness of Supplee Sealtest Homogenized Vitamin D Milk and your family will thrive on it, too. Get it from your Supplee milk man or woman, or your neighborhood grocer.

Community Workshop To Open Second Semester On Monday

Club Delegates Will Attend Eight 3-Hour Sessions

The second semester of the third annual Community Workshop, sponsored by the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs and Pennsylvania State College, will open February 5 and continue through March 20. Miss Rose Cologne, the instructor, is community adult education specialist with the college's extension services.

The Workshop has an enrollment of 60 women, including several from Bucks County. Tuition for most of the delegates is paid by their clubs, and the County Federation Scholarship Fund provided for others this year.

A complete program of 15 units of work to be covered in eight three-hour sessions was set up. Because of the large enrollment two classes were established in the basic course and a third in an advanced course, the latter for those who completed the basic course in previous years.

The Workshop is the Federation's plan to meet the challenge of effectively solving complex community problems in order that the democratic way of life may be strengthened. The seven specific objectives as outlined by the Extension Services are:

1. To work on problems of club program planning in relation to community needs.
2. To learn some of the newer techniques for discovering community problems.
3. To learn ways of (a) creating local and county programs out of community needs; (b) adapting materials from county, state, and national sources to meet local needs; and (c) making the best use of lecturers.
4. To indicate sources of material available for club work.
5. To develop techniques for working co-operatively with many community groups.
6. To learn to work with people so that the result will be fine personal inter-relationships.
7. To develop club programs which relate thinking and action.

The 15 units of work outlined to accomplish these objectives include almost all phases of club activity. The first part of the course dealt with the origin and function of women's clubs, and the second part with the community worker—characteristics, leadership and morale.

The third and fourth units are "Studying the Community" and "Program Planning." After the community is analyzed and its needs and resources discovered, the various programs can be fitted to the needs and co-ordinated with programs of other organizations.

Next, community co-ordinating councils will be studied, and the problems involved in establishing community projects examined. Then methods for club work will be taken up.

Printed materials, audio-visual aids, resource persons, and publicity form the subjects of four units. Organization problems, public speaking, and local, county and state government make up the succeeding units. The final section will be an evaluation of the effectiveness of a club program, including standards and evaluation which can be used.

The Advanced Workshop will work out ways for the community to organize rehabilitation programs for returning servicemen. Co-ordination of all available agencies and services for veterans will be stressed, including establishing information centers and collection of literature for use of the community.

Especially important will be discovering ways and means of learning the basic principles of human relationships to guide families and friends of veterans in assisting with the return to civilian life.

Delegates to the basic course include Mrs. L. G. Crater, Women's Community Club of Narberth; Mrs. F. B. Allen, Mrs. George H. Gilbert and Mrs. Rollo H. Pierce, Woman's Club of Bala-Cynwyd; Mrs. Edward Jennings, Mrs. Kathleen Kreuger and Mrs. Fred C. Peters, Woman's Club of Ardmore.

Workshop veterans enrolled in the advanced course include Mrs. Samuel H. P. Read, Sr., Women's Community Club of Narberth; Mrs. William F. Leisman, Woman's Club of Ardmore.

Jane Peters Heads College Committee

Miss Jane Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Peters, of 48 S. Wyoming Ave., Ardmore, has been appointed chairman of the committee in charge of rooms for the annual Winter Carnival to be held at Colby Junior College, February 9-11, the recreation association has announced. Miss Peters is a senior in the family relationship course and is a senior counselor, treasurer of the recreation association, vice president of the senior class, and chairman of conferences for the YWCA.

The tentative program for the carnival includes a ski meet on Saturday afternoon, followed by an informal buffet supper. A skating competition will precede the formal dance on Saturday night.

New Course In Home Nursing Starts Feb. 19

Former Airline Nurse Will Instruct

Calling for the cooperation of all women in the community, Mrs. E. A. Whiting, Home Nursing chairman of the Main Line Branch of the Red Cross, yesterday announced the opening class of a new home nursing course on February 19 from 7.30 to 9.30 P. M., at the Red Cross headquarters in Ardmore.

Due to the shortage of doctors and nurses and the need for many more nurses for the armed forces, Mrs. Whiting said, everyone should prepare for the emergency care of their family by taking a home nursing course.

Mrs. John J. Sewell, of Wynnewood, who will conduct the course, is a graduate of Simons College in Public Health Nursing. She was a former T. A. hostess and a nurse stewardess with American Export Lines. To receive full value from the course and get sufficient practice in the nursing skills, Mrs. Whiting said, the women will meet two hours a week for twelve weeks.

Besides simple nursing procedure, this free course will stress care of the young and old, recognition of symptoms of illness, personal and mental health and a study of contagious diseases.

The club's board of directors will meet February 13 at 10 A. M. at the home of the president, Mrs. H. C. Middleton, 5 Shirley Rd.

Anything in Frills Available at "Q's" For Gift-Buying Males

Main Line Woman Starts Unique Shop in New York

Antoinette Monique Quilleret is a woman with a knack for solving other people's problems.

Her latest contribution is a smart New York shop called "Q's" which she has "respectfully dedicated to men only".

It is a place designed specifically for the benefit of harassed males who want to buy gifts of fluffy pretties, but who feel overwhelmed with embarrassment at the notion of going into the ordinary store and saying so.

Mrs. Quilleret got her idea one evening when her husband, Pierre, an attorney and officer of a fuel company, brought a friend to dinner at their Main Line home. The friend described in detail the horrible experience he had that afternoon trying to buy a fully nightgown for his wife.

Now "Q's" is known as a unique addition to the Manhattan fabricious, because only members of the rugged sex are welcome to purchase a delicate feather boa or, perhaps, a wispy, hand-appliqued jacket. An exception is made in the case of secretaries who can produce the proper credentials from their bosses.

It required more than an idea and a sympathetic nature to make "Q's" a success. Before she came to America, Mrs. Quilleret worked with Paquin as assistant director of his fashion salon in Paris. Although she was there primarily to attract social leaders and sports-women from her own set to the Paquin roster, she was soon taking an active role in designing sport clothes and buying material, furs and accessories. She also supervised Paquin's London shop. Personally prominent throughout France as one of the country's leading woman golfers and as a rider in hunts and shows, she also had been women's tennis champion of Morocco.

A short time after she came to Philadelphia in 1937 as the bride of Pierre Quilleret, Mrs. Quilleret was riding with the Radnor Hunt, the Rose Tree Hunt, with Joseph Ewing's Eagle Pack, and was playing golf on the team of the Philadelphia Country Club. The many committees on which she served included the Devon Horse Show, the Rittenhouse Square Flower Mart, and many others. She spends her weekends in Bryn Mawr with her husband and her daughter, Chantal. The latter also works at solving other people's problems—in the personnel department of the University of Pennsylvania.

Lower Merion High School Five Blasts Norristown and Bartram

Maroon Passers Need Victory at Cheltenham To Remain Tied for Lead

Highly-Regarded Eagles Nosed Out In Close Guarding League Game, 32-26, and City Champs Are Taken Easily, 45-31

"What's the matter with those Bulldogs?"

"They're all right. Yeah, man!"

That's the enthusiastic appraisal of the Lower Merion High School basketball team today among students and alumni as a result of smashing victories over Norristown High and Bartram High.

The steadily improving protégés of Coach Bill Anderson out-fought highly regarded Norristown, 32-26, at Downs gym last Friday to move into a first place tie with Haverford in the Suburban One League, and then on Tuesday they romped to a surprisingly easy 45-31 victory over Bartram's defending Philadelphia district champions, before 6000 at Convention Hall.

Coach Anderson goes to Elkins Park Friday night highly confident of chalking up its fifth victory in the league at the expense of last place Cheltenham.

The Norristown victory was the more important, but it probably didn't give Maroon followers more satisfaction than the triumph over Bartram as the latter topped for a defeat at the hands of the Clippers in the finals of last year's Red Cross tournament at the same site.

Lower Merion was at the very peak of its game and looked like the champion of old as it took the lead in the second minute of play and held the upper hand all the way. Capitalizing mainly on swell ball handling and neat set shots, Lower Merion moved ahead, 13-9, in the first quarter and boosted this advantage to 24-14 by halftime.

Bartram put up its most spirited opposition in the third quarter, which the team scored ten points, but the Maroons fast cutting attack clicked consistently in the stretch and the Anderson men won going away.

Lower Merion outscored Bartram, 18-12, in the second half, making its impressive total on just 59 shots. Lacey Gane led the way with a brilliant all-around performance that netted him 12 points on five field goals and a pair of foul tosses.

Stu Young and Bob McDermott each banged home four field goals and the former also converted three free throws to finish with a total of 11 points.

The game was the windup of a doubleheader. Southern High, Public League, defeated West Catholic, 33-22, in the opener.

McDermott and Young were the spearheads of the attack against Norristown, collecting ten and nine points, respectively.

The Norristown game was marked by close guarding. Lower Merion squeezed out a 7-5 lead in the first quarter and had a slight edge the rest of the way, leading by 15-12 at halftime and by 24-19 at the end of the third quarter.

Pacing Norristown was Smith, at forward, who tallied four goals and a pair of fouls for ten points.

Lower Merion's record is now nine victories against three defeats.

KNOW YOUR STATE
Employment Opportunities
Postwar Housing
The most vital postwar need in Pennsylvania is adequate housing. This is particularly true in view of the fact that though Pennsylvania's growth has not been so rapid in the past ten years, as it was at the beginning of the century, the present state has witnessed an unusual increase in the number of young men and women of marriageable age. Following the war there will be a great demand for dwellings and a considerable increase in the number of families in the state as compared with only a few years ago.

In 1940 Pennsylvania contained 2,515,524 occupied dwelling units with an average of 3.94 persons per dwelling. Nearly 46 per cent. of Pennsylvania's homes were occupied by their owners and even if these dwellings were vacant, since more than 1,200,000 of all Pennsylvania houses were built more than thirty years ago, this percentage of occupancy was extremely high and indicates the very great need which will soon develop for new houses or apartments in our suburbs and cities.

Though more than 131,000,000 in Federal funds has been expended on emergency housing in Pennsylvania, a large part of this construction was of an impermanent type and much of it is located near war plants or in communities which cannot maintain their wartime population. House construction should, therefore, afford a very considerable postwar employment, and the repair of existing structures will also require much additional labor as soon as peacetime conditions are re-established.

At normal temperatures and at atmospheric pressure butane is a gas, but it is often stored and shipped under higher pressure as a liquid for easier handling.

Bala-Cynwyd Five Wins 7 Straight

Junior High Team Has Remarkable Shooting Average

The Bala-Cynwyd Junior High School is not only cutting a wide swath in junior high basketball circles but is setting some kind of a record for accuracy.

The undefeated pupils of Coach Harold Kline chalked up their seventh straight victory at the expense of Berwyn, 46-8, on Tuesday, after having defeated one of their big rivals, Upper Darby, 34-17, last Friday.

Against Berwyn the B-C passers had almost a 50 per cent average on their shooting. While the varsity was in the game it collected 17 field goals on July 23 shots, an almost unheard-of average for any kind of basketball.

For the season the average of the Bala-Cynwyd shooters is considerably better than 30 per cent. The team has compiled its fine record due to a well balanced attack with no one player being the consistent leading scorer. Against Upper Darby, for example, Len Shepherd led the way with 16 points, but against Berwyn, Tom Davis and Wayne were high with seven and eight, respectively. Howard Wright and Gene Ziner are the other members of the varsity.

Davis, brother of Lt. Larry Davis, USMC, former Penn and Cornell athlete and one of Lower Merion High's greatest court stars, was outstanding against Upper Darby, holding the Bucks' leading scorer, Jackson, to seven points while he himself tallied eight.

Coach Kline is also fortunate in having good reserves. Among them are Jack Kendall, Jim Haslam, Reuben Tyndall, Bob Walter, Bob Johnson and Dick O'Neil.

Bala-Cynwyd entertains Bridgeport Friday and next Tuesday visits Stewart Junior High at Norristown and on Friday travels to Upper Darby.

Bala-Cynwyd's record:
25-Haverford	22
38-Thomas Williams	17
40-Smedley	17
35-Rittenhouse	12
50-Upper Merion	25
24-Upper Darby	17
46-Berwyn	8

GL's Welcome Ditch Digging To Relieve Tension of Desert Warfare

Soldiers Lament Hardships of Those Based at Home Eating Three Squares a Day and Drinking Ten-Cent Beer.

(Editor's Note: This dispatch was written and first published when Pyle was in the G. I. at the African front. He is now on his way to cover the boys in the Pacific war zones.)

When our Sahara salvage expedition found wrecked airplanes far out on the endless desert, the mechanics went to work taking off usable parts; and four others of us appointed ourselves the official ditchdiggers of the day.

We were all afraid of being strafed if the Germans came over, and saw men working around the planes and we wanted a nice ditch handy for diving into. The way to have a nice ditch is to dig one.

While we were digging, one of the boys brought up for the thousandth time the question of what letter in Time Magazine. What letter, you ask? Why, it's a letter you probably don't remember, but it had become famous around these parts.

It was in the November 23 issue, which eventually found its way to the point. I said it, I spoke to a few friends, and we commented on this letter in terms which the fire department won't permit me to set to paper.

To A. C. the point, a letter written by a soldier, and it said: "The greatest Christmas present that can be given to us this year is not smoking jackets, ties, pipes or cigars. If people will only take the money and buy war bonds, they will be helping themselves and helping us to be home next Christmas. Being home next Christmas is something which would be appreciated by all of us boys in service!"

The letter was all right with the soldiers over here until they got down to the address of the writer and discovered he was still in camp in the States. For a soldier back home to open his trap about anything concerning the war is like waving a red flag at the troops over here. They say they can do whatever talking is necessary.

"Them poor dogfaces back home," said one of the ditchdiggers with fine soldier sarcasm. "They're really got it ragged. Nothing but a few dollars and old greasy pork chops and them three-inch steaks all the time. I wouldn't be surprised if they don't have to eat eggs several times a week."

"And they're so lonely," said another. "No entertainment except to rattle them old dimes around the dance floor. The USO closes at 10 o'clock and the night clubs at 3. It's mighty tough on them. No wonder they want to get home."

"And they probably don't get no sleep," said another, "sleeping on them old cots with springs and everything, and scalding themselves in hot baths all the time. They're just dying to drink that nasty old ten-cent beer and that awful whiskey," chimed in another philosopher with a shiver.

"And when they put a nickel in the slot, nothing comes out but Glenn Miller and the swing and such trash as that. My heart just bleeds for them poor guys."

"And did you see where he was?" asked another. "At the Albuquerque Base. And he was just home by next Christmas. Hell, if I could just see the Albuquerque Air Base again I'd think I was in Heaven."

That's the way it goes. The boys feel a soldier isn't qualified to comment, unless he is on the wrong side of the ocean. They're gay and full of their own wit but just the same they mean it. When they get started that way, it's in the form of the aged soldier's pastime of grouching. It helps to take your mind off things.

Into Northern Tunisia

We moved one just a few miles behind the invisible line of armor that separates us from the Germans in Northern Tunisia. Nothing happened that first night that was spectacular, yet somehow the whole night became obsessed with a spookiness that leaves it standing like a landmark in my memory.

We had been at the new camp about an hour and were still setting up our tents when German planes appeared overhead. We stopped work to watch them. It was the usual display of daring planes, with the conglomerate sounds of ack-ack on the ground and in the sky.

Suddenly we realized that one plane was diving straight at us, and we made a mad scramble for fox-holes. Two officer friends of mine had dug a fox-hole for the sole and set their tent over it. So they made for their tent, and I was tramping on their heels. The tent flap wouldn't open, and we wound up in a silly heap. Finally it did open, and the plane was seen to be the narrow opening all at once.

We lay there in the hole, face down, as the plane came smack overhead with a terrible roar. We were all drawn up inside, waiting for the blow. Explosions around us were shatteringly loud, and yet when it was all over we couldn't find any bomb holes or anybody hurt.

But you could find a lot of nervous people.

Dusk came on, and with dusk began the steady boom of big guns in the mountains ahead of us. The war had never been so close as this. The sound was so crashing. Rather it was like the lonely roar of an approaching thunderstorm—a sound which since childhood has always made me mad with a kind of portent of inevitable doom.

Not Humanly

tempts to enter the building but was forced back each time by the heat, finally gained entrance by ladder through a window opening on the stairway leading to the second floor. In proceeding toward the front on that floor he discovered the bodies of four persons. When the police on duty in radio cars arrived at the fire, they had attempted to enter the house as did the firemen on their arrival but the intense heat and smoke prevailing at that time prevented their doing so. Apparently the Fire Marshal was able to enter when he did by reason of the fact that a considerable quantity of water had been thrown onto the fire. So far as the Fire Marshal could determine, the four persons had died before he discovered their bodies and it appeared to him that death had occurred through suffocation since their bodies were not badly burned, in fact their night clothing had not been burned from their bodies.

"The Fire Marshal has now completed his investigation and has reported to the Township Commissioners. He states that in his opinion at the time the alarm of the fire was sounded, it was not humanly possible to have prevented the loss of life that occurred, that the response of the Fire Departments was prompt, and that the fire was fought in an efficient manner. He also stated that the four policemen in radio cars who were at the scene of the fire within two or three minutes after the alarm was sounded not only completely cornered traffic in the neighborhood but did everything that could be expected of them in attempting to enter the house and in assisting in fighting the fire. In the judgment of the Fire Marshal nothing took place in connection with this fire which calls for corrective action either in the Fire Department or in the Police Department. A committee of the Township Commissioners has reviewed the statements taken by the Police Department and have independent inquiries into the fire. The Township Commissioners wish to state that they concur in the conclusions of the Fire Marshal as stated above.

"As a result of this occurrence a number of communications have been received by the Township Commissioners from the Township Commissioners asking the question whether the Township should not have paid fire companies instead of the existing volunteer companies. This is a question that has been asked for a number of years. This opinion of the Commissioners is further strengthened by the fact that the prevailing fire insurance rates in the Township are exceptionally low.

Narberth Finishes In Tie for Second Place

Berwyn Boys Club is the first half champion of the Main Line Boys' Clubs Conference as a result of making a clean sweep of all seven of its games. The title was clinched Tuesday night when the upper Main Liners defeated Good Counsel B. C. of Bryn Mawr, 31-24, at Berwyn.

Despite the defeat, Good Counsel managed to finish fourth, thanks to a 51-29 victory over Manoa B. C. at Lower Merion High last Wednesday.

Narberth B. C. made a belated futile bid to overcome the pace setters by defeating Paoli B. C., 62-46, last Wednesday at Lower Merion, and by upsetting Westgate Hills, 39-31, the next night at the window of a double bill at Penn Wynne School.

Stonehurst Hills defeated Paoli B. C., 25-14, in the other half of the Thursday program to tie Narberth for second place.

Charlie Boga, a newcomer at center in the Good Counsel lineup, tallied 22 points against Manoa and had ten against Berwyn. But high scoring honors for the week went to Narberth's McQuiston, who scored 26 points during the rout of Paoli. He had 11 against Westgate, but scoring laurels in that particular game fell to Kelly, Westgate forward, who scored six field goals for 12 points.
